

Academic Excellence

Carden School of Camarillo students perform consistently above grade level on the National Stanford Scholastic Achievement Tests. The SAT is a nationally ranked test, as opposed to the California based standardized test that most public schools use. The test we use compares our students to other students across the nation instead of just in California. The chart below shows that students at the Carden School of Camarillo performed overall at a level equivalent to two grades above their actual grade level.

Data represents test results of 97 students grades K-8. April 2009 test period.
